Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R. I., March 7 — Two masked men, carrying short, stubby revolvers, held up the Quonset Point Naval Air Station credit union today and escaped with $100,000 in cash.

Naval Station officers said the bandits fled in a green sedan, racing through the air station gate at 50 miles an hour. Three Marines were on duty at the gate.

Government funds were not involved.

Gerald Lync of Apponaug, R. I., the credit union manager, and Thomas Smith, civilian guard, were about to carry the funds — in canvas sacks — from their parked cars at the rear of the building when the bandits drove up.

Aged Doctor Can Now Have Visitors

Memphis, Tenn. March 7 (AP)—Old Doc Ervin, a country doctor who rarely bothered to send bills to his patients, can have visitors now.

Monday, he'll be leaving Baptist Hospital for home.

Home is Inverness, a small town in West-Central Mississippi where Old Doc's full name is Dr. W. L. Ervin. He has practiced medicine for 83 of his 75 years.

But Old Doc, whose patients—both black and white, rich and poor—chipped in to raise $2,000 for his medical expenses, won't be going home as happy as he could be.

Doc's diagnosis of his ailment was confirmed by the big city physicians. They operated and found he was suffering with cancer of the liver, and that it was too late to remove the organ.

So he'll be going back to Inverness to wait.

When told of this, Old Doc didn't lose his famous smile. He set his mind to feel a few pulses, take a few temperatures and write a few prescriptions for patients who'll call at his home-while he's waiting.

As far as is known, Old Doc's smile has left him only once. That was when the people of Inverness and thereabouts presented him with the fund. He broke down and cried.

But he didn't cry this time. He was happy, knowing he was going to be among the folks who live in big plantation homes and broken down tenant cabins, the neighbors who came to his aid when he needed it most.

The money for the gray-haired doctor with twinkling blue eyes was collected in a campaign that found solicitors knocking on doors of mansions and rickety shacks alike. It was kept a secret until the day he arrived here for treatment.

"Best people in the world down there, both black and white," Old Doc said, with a lump in his throat.

Many was the time Old Doc made his round to minister to the sick and got a fee of only a spoken "thanks," or a slab of bacon, or a sack of corn.

He never claimed credit for the services he gave. He merely referred to a quotation attributed to a French doctor who says:

"I bandaged him, God healed him."

$9,050 Paid for 12 Calves From Glencrest Farm

Third District Livestock Show official, Glen Wallace of Nashville, was in Hope yesterday discussing plans for this year's show with Manager Bob Shivers.

Mr. Wallace has one of the better herds of Arkansas and only a couple of days ago sold 12 one-year old heifers for $9,050. The buyer was J. C. Harrison of Columbia, South Carolina.

The official pointed out that one object of the Third District show was to promote better livestock in this section and the sale of calves is the profitable result of years of breeding for better stock.

Lucinda Barr, 73, Succumbs in Little Rock

Miss Lucinda Barr, aged 73, died Thursday at Little Rock. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at Liberty Church, near Prescott, by the Rev. John White.

Mrs. Dean, a Teacher for 53 Years, Dies

Mrs. Irma Dean, veteran teacher of 53 years, died Friday morning in a local hospital.

Born at Collierville, Tennessee, Mrs. Dean spent her girlhood and married there. She moved to Arkansas and settled at Marvel.

Here her only daughter, Gwendolyn, who survives her, was born.

She taught a number of years at Marvel, moving from there to Laramie, Wyoming, where she continued teaching in public schools.

She came to Hope in 1925 and has been connected with local schools all this year when failing health prevented her from accepting her post of duty.

There is hardly a home in Hope which has not felt her influence and enjoyed her ready wit. She was a true friend to all students who came under her tutelage.

Endowed with native wit her students soon learned that she could hold her own with any situation which arose in the classroom.

She was a true and loyal teacher and there was never a time that she did not give unreservedly and unstintingly of herself to her profession.

She took great pride in the record that she never missed a day of school due to illness until last year. Her friends were legion and she will be missed greatly by the school and community. Certainly this teacher has brought "life more abundantly" to many youths.

Funeral services will be conducted at First Methodist Church at 10 a. m. Saturday and the funeral cortege will drive to Iuka, Mississippi where interment will be held.

Active pallbearers: Members of the school system, James H. Jones, Joe Amour, Frank Rider, R. E. Jackson, Horace Hubbard, Foy H. Hammons, Lawrence Martin, Jack Sargent, Thomas Cannon, Garland Urrey and Joe Ensminger.

Foreign Aid Fund Likely to Be Sharply Cut

Washington, March 7 (AP)—President Truman's one-two "Sunday punch" for his $7,000,000,000 foreign aid program left Congress members still talking about scaling it down today, almost as if nothing had happened.

Even administration supporters conceded they were in for a tough time.

The President led off with a 7,500 word special message to Congress yesterday, noon declaring every single dollar of the amount he asked for was needed to meet the threat of Russian communism.

Then he went on a far-ranging network of radio and television last night to carry his plea direct to the American people.

Although the President said "we'd be better off to win the fight against communism than to win any particular election," some senators and representatives said privately today that he appeared to be injecting politics into the matter after asking them to avoid doing so.

Alluding to congressional threats to slash foreign aid by billions, Truman told his radio-TV audience:

"Now I know this is a very popular point of view, especially in an election year just as popular as a campaign pledge to reduce taxes."

But, he said, the $7,000,000,000 request was not "a single dollar more than our national security requires."

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Ia) told this reporter what the President "really means is they won't spend a dollar more than the Democratic administration requires to stay in power."

"We failed to stop communism."

A U. S. Postman Is One of America's Best But Least Recognized Educators

By HAL BOYLE
New York, March 7 (AP)—The U. S. postman is one of America's best but least recognized educators.

He is a walking library on buttons, a traveling professor for the great university of the common man—the Postal Service.

This silent teacher delivers the world's knowledge in the worn leather bag slung from his shoulder. It is the 20th century version of Pandora's Box, bringing endless tidings to mankind of old times and fresh hope—a draft note here, a dividend check there.

He is a messenger of death and birth, a keeper of tremendous secrets in small envelopes, the mute go-between for lovers, a salesman who works for the price of a stamp for distant firms.

Over the years the postman stirs more hearts than anyone. People wait tensely or eagerly for the sound of his footsteps on the walk, his whistle at the front porch—signals of the arrival of his daily cargo of magic and disenchantment.

His reward for wading through snowdrifts to reach the family mailbox is at best a cup of hot coffee, more often it is a disappointed wait, "Is that all you brought?"

Bad weather had bad dogs ambush him, and he learns to bear with both.

He comes to know his neighborhood better than the cop on the beat, and he is harder to fool. He doesn't have to read the postcards to tell who is having a wonderful time. He doesn't have to open the letters to tell who is being dunned or non-payment of bills.

What member of the family has gone away for his health, which college lad is writing home for more money.

By the number and nature of his mail deliveries he knows who is lonely, who is happy, who is in

Chinese Worry of Possible Coast Blockade

Munsan, Korea, March 7 (AP)—Communist true negotiators today sought to forestall a possible naval blockade of the Red China coast or an invasion of the mainland.

The Reds proposed writing a ban into a Korean armistice.

"It seems that what they are trying to do is to stretch the armistice agreement to any place in the world where forces in Korea have any territory under their control," said Col. Don O. Darrow.

He said the Reds held that "any military action would be prohibited, not only in Korea, but in any other place."

The Communist maneuver came during a discussion of withdrawing naval forces from Korean waters during a truce.

Harvard-educated Col. Pu Shan proposed deleting specific reference to Korea.

CRASH VICTIM DIES

Nice, France, March 7 (AP)—The last survivor of Monday's crash of an Air France airliner died here yesterday. She was French dancer Marguerite Delpy, who succumbed to injuries received in the crash.

Of 37 others aboard, 16 were killed outright when the plane crashed in an olive grove near here and a woman passenger died en route to the hospital.

Bell Refund May Again Go Before the High Court

Little Rock, March 7 (AP)—Both sides have asked the Arkansas Supreme Court to reconsider its decision in the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. rate case.

Lawyers for a group of cities which are protesting that the court had allowed a too large rate in increase filed a motion for rehearing yesterday. Shortly afterward the telephone company filed a similar motion, seeking to eliminate or decrease the refunds the court ordered. Yesterday was the last day for filing such motions.

The court, which seldom grants rehearings, will take the petitions under submission Monday.

The high court last month authorized an annual increase in Arkansas rates of $3,177,000. That compared with some $4,600 annually the company had sought and approximately $3,000,000 the Public Service Commission had allowed.

'Oilboat Olga' Proves a Joy to Pressbox

Washington March 7 (AP)—Beautiful "Oilboat Olga" Konow, who had to tell a Senate committee about her surprisingly lucrative business, became a shipowner and broker because her Norwegian husband used to tell her that "shipping is for men."

"It cannot be so," she said to herself in a Marlene Dietrich voice which comes natural. Mrs. Konow was born in a part of old Austria-Hungary which is now in Czechoslovakia.

She was a distinct strain on senatorial dignity and a joy to the press box as she told a Senate committee how she made half a million dollars in a sale of surplus U. S. tankers to a company heavily financed by wealthy Chinese.

The committee is investigating several tanker deals which made tremendous profits for a star-studded list, including former Congressman Joseph E. Casey, now a Washington lawyer.

Mrs. Konow is tall, with big green eyes, and a halo of silver hair. There is a line in her soft, round face.

"Dis is so surprising the Senate want to hear from me," she said. "My husband and I think it such an honor. I may be the only woman shipowner today. But I am such a little one. You say that, please. The men know."

"So I get on the plane. And half way I think maybe I should have a lawyer. So I turn to the man next to me, and he say, 'I take you to my friend.' So we take a taxi from the airport and we see nice, young Mr. Kelly." Roy Kelly, a Washington lawyer.

"He was so busy," she continues. "We wants to read through all that transcript. I say, 'no, no. Just find out where I fit in, and how I

B. W. Edwards Home From Field Trials

B. W. Edwards of Hope has returned after two days of riding a horse and following the National Amateur Field Trials which opened Monday at Booneville.

He said both the terrain and the horse were rough.

Sixty-eight champion pointers and setters were entered from all over the United States in the field trials which opened at Booneville March 3 and are scheduled to continue for 10 days from that date.

However, Mr. Edwards said judging from the number of dogs on hand it would take a full two weeks to run off the competition.

He marveled at the endurance of the field judges, following the dogs on horseback day after day. One man of 70 rode out with them every morning. Edwards drew a jack-o'-lantern plug for a mount and after two days of riding up and down hill he had a sore back and

Witness Sees Man Strangle Nurse

Los Angeles, March 7 (AP)—Police held William Klink, 27-year-old refrigerator repairman, on suspicion of murder today and said they had a witness who saw him strangle a nurse to death in a downtown hotel room.

The victim was identified as Mae E. Mathis, about 40, formerly of Dragerton, Utah. She was a special duty nurse, on call by various hospitals.

Jordan Jones of Sacramento, Calif., told Lt. Bob Reed of the homicide detail:

"I looked through my window and saw the couple enter their room. There was a brief period of love making. Then, suddenly, the man looped a belt around her neck and began dragging her around the floor."

"He kept pulling the belt tighter, then started going through her handbag and clothes, hauling the body around as he did so. When he needed both hands he would take the belt in his teeth, still holding it taut."

Jones said that for a time he was dazed and unbelieving, then he telephoned the clerk, who notified police. Officers said the man still held the belt in his hands when they broke into the room.

A fire department rescue squad tried to revive the woman and a doctor gave her adrenalin injection, then pronounced her dead.

Lt. Reed said Klink told him he met the woman in a bar. The couple registered at the hotel about 2 hours before she was found dead.

Klink refused to give his address and insisted there was a quarrel because she attempted to take his money.

Probers Turn to Pentagon Ghost Writers

Washington, March 7 — (UP) — A House subcommittee on military waste claimed today to have turned up names of 211 press agents and ghost writers "hidden" from the subcommittee in its study of a $2,000,000 Pentagon publicity payroll.

Chairman Frank Edward Hebert (D-La) demanded that the Defense Department "re-examine its conscience" and "confess" to those names and possibly others not included on a list of 184 press relations and public information workers supplied to the subcommittee yesterday.

275 Injured When Show Bleachers Fall

Baltimore, March 7 (AP)—A huge section of ice show bleachers, "not even nailed down," collapsed like a giant game of jack-straws and injured more than 275 persons last night. Thirty-two of them were reported in "serious condition."

As 10 hospitals continued treating the bruised and battered victims, the city revealed it hadn't issued the Sonja Henie show permit for the temporary stands in Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory.

Though none was required by law, the show had asked for one and had been refused according to building inspector Paul Cohen.

The massive section shuddered and gave way about 8:25 p. m., five minutes before the show was scheduled to begin.

The heavy beams and planks went down with a roar, plunging men, women and children under a mass of heavy splinters, wood and twisted metal.

Tore at the tangled beams to rescue screaming children and crying women.

There was no panic among others in the crowd, and the rescue operation carried on by police, firemen and national guardmen was completed within 30 minutes.

Cohen said the show was refused a request for a permit because all stands were not up at the time inspectors called yesterday afternoon.

He added that none would have been issued anyway, since the section which would seat about 700 persons was "of temporary construction and not even nailed down."

The armory is exempt from the city building code because it is state property, but it is customary for those renting the building to apply for a permit.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro ordered a "full and complete" investigation until "every fact is uncovered." Director of public works Paul Holland was placed in charge of the probe.

Brig. Gen. Harvey S. Ruhl, aide to the adjutant general, said the temporary rental contracts were "a compelling management to get out liability insurance."

Jack Mulesky, Miss Henie's publicity man, said the temporary bleachers were erected under supervision of a construction which goes by the name of C. Mulesky said he believed a has offices "in New Jersey."

He didn't know exactly who a crowd of 7,000 persons hand for the show. Miss Henie celebrated the performance of ticket holders could have or attend another show night.

Police estimated about 200 persons were seated in the section which collapsed.

Hospitals sent out calls for doctors who brought the bleeding victims in for treatment.

Families were anxious fathers and mothers from one of 200 families.

War Games Underway at Fort Hood

Fort Hood, Tex., March 7 (AP)—Thousands of men in strange green uniforms will drop from the skies soon to do battle with a U. S. force which doesn't know just when or where to expect them.

The defenders—about 100,000 of them—know this much: The attack will come sometime soon after March 25. And the blow will fall somewhere within an 1,800-square mile area of Central Texas.

The air drop of the aggressor force will be the start of Exercise Long Horn—the largest joint Army-Air Force maneuvers since the 1940 Louisiana maneuvers. Altogether, 115,000 to 120,000 men will take part in the exercises set for March 25 to April 11. More than 1,000 planes of all types will be used.

Lessons learned in Korea will be put to use by men who were there. Battlefield maintenance, new communications facilities, close air-ground co-ordination, propaganda—all will have a part. The maneuver director is Lt. Gen. William M. Hodge, Fourth Army commander who recently returned from Korea where he commanded the Ninth Corps.

The aggressor force will be the 11th Airborne Division from Ft. Bragg, N. C. It will have its own air arm—the 108th Fighter Bomber Wing and the 33rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, both already crowding in on Mather Field at San Angelo in West Texas. Besides the green uniforms, they will wear crested helmets and fancy collar tabs to distinguish themselves from their olive-drab opponents.

Numerically, the cards are stacked in favor of the "U. S." forces. They will comprise the 31st Infantry Division from Camp Jackson, N. C.; 17th Infantry Division from Camp Buckner, Ala.; First Armored Division from Ft. Hood; 18th Air Force from Greenville, S. C.; and 9th Air Force from Ft. Bragg, N. C.

Foreign Aid

In Korea and it's become more clear every day that European unity is not materializing," Hick enlooper said. "Meanwhile the evidence of waste and corruption in public funds and contracts is growing."

Two Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, McMahon of Connecticut and Green of Rhode Island, applauded the Truman appeals but, in separate interviews, agreed they face a stiff fight this year.

"We may spend the money in foreign lands but we're spending it for our own security," McMahon said. "It's politically unpopular to claim other wise and, this being an election year, we'll have to fight it out with the full vigor that a great cause demands."

"I think it's a very well thought out program," Green said. "I may question some details but I agree with most of the principles."

The Senate and House Democratic chairmen who normally push foreign aid bills, predicted cuts.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Congress may go out more than a billion "and I'm not saying that it should not be more than that."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was happy Truman asked less than last year, when he requested 1.2 billion, but added:

"I am confident that even this lower figure can be cut."

can help the Senate." So he found out.

Then the zero hour. She says, "It is not easy, you know. I have five butterflies in my tummy. But those senators are so handsome, and they are so well-dressed. I sat down. But those lights. Those cameras. Can you believe it? I never saw the press before. Nevaire saw a real movie camera before."

"I have told Kelly I just tell the truth."

She said her interest in the shipping business is just profit. She has little or no interest in international complications.

"I am not interested in from where the money comes," she smiled brightly at the senators.

"But it interests me when it is coming," she put one of those Dietrich draws on "when."

It comes, and amazingly.

She decided to stop being just a housewife in 1944. Her husband, successful shipping man, and an international yachtsman, didn't take her seriously. But he let her start in his office.

"He let me stamp envelope," she chuckled. "Den he let me carry down around to the mail chute."

"Then she swung a loan for her first boat-tanker. She took a huge mortgage, and formed the American Viking Corporation."

"But ships have life, you know," she says. "You own one ship. You want more ships. So I get part of my first tanker paid, and I take another mortgage and buy another. You are always mortgaged to the eyebrows."

She has organized three companies: the American Viking, the Olga Konow, Inc. and the Deep Sea Shipping and Chartering Company. All lease tankers to major oil companies. She has just sold out control of American Viking for several hundred thousand but she remains president, and has a working contract for five years, at $20,000 a year.

How could she be a success in a man's business? "It is like running a man's business."

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN
AS JOHNNY LIDDELL looked up from his third cup of coffee, Muggsy Kieley slid into the seat beside him. She stared at the discolored gash just under the hairline, whistled audibly.

"You're a detective who really uses his head, aren't you? What happened?"

"I got too close to Goldy and she let me have it. With a sap." He investigated the top of his head gingerly. "And don't think that baby doesn't know how to use one."

"You got close to her?"

Liddell nodded. "I was sneaking up on her. She must have heard me, because she waited until I got close enough, then she lowered the boom."

"You're sure it was Goldy?"

"Positive. When I started to go out, I grabbed for whoever it was. I got a handful of skirt." He finished his coffee, signaled the waitress to bring two more cups.

"When I came to, she was sitting in the room with Be Ceria."

"Too bad you couldn't hold onto her."

Liddell grimaced. "Too bad my skull isn't steel plated. Did you get what I wanted?"

"Maybe."

"What do you mean, maybe. I told you it was rush. Did you get it?"

Muggsy waited until the waitress had placed the coffee in front of them and retired beyond earshot. "Where do I fit in this deal, Johnny?" she wanted to know.

"We've been through all that. I'll call you and give you the stuff the minute it happens."

Muggsy shook her head. "That was the deal. This story's getting bigger all the time. I want to be in on it."

Enlist His Pals

To accomplish this difficult task involves a conspiracy on the part of you and a few other good friends of the boy. Have his pals make a point of asking him to join in the crowd's activities. When he raises, as an objection, the results of his accident, they must convince him that his friends do not consider a handicap a barrier to good friendship. This job will take every bit of tact you teenagers can muster, but surely there could be no more worthwhile project.

If the boy is allowed to continue his attitude of withdrawal and seclusion, he'll grow up to be a mal-adjusted adult. It will be a while before he comes to accept his condition and learns to make the best of it. But nothing will help him during this period so much as devoted friends. Of course, you will also have to be careful to avoid, at least for the time being, activities in which your friend cannot participate. In time, he'll probably be able to do anything the rest of the gang can do, but until that happy day it will be part of your diplomatic build-up to arrange pastimes suitable for his condition.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been writing to a boy in service and my mother won't let me talk to other boys while he is away. Is she right?

Answer: Someone in this situation is wrong, and I'm afraid it's your mother. Judging from your letter, you are very young and most definitely should not be tied down to one boy—present or absent. Your mother should encourage you to see other friends, and spend more time on your schoolwork.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband died two years ago and I am very lonely. I am in my fifties and have met a fine man my age who is also lonely. Here is my problem. My husband was a foreigner and when we had guests who were friends or relatives of his, they would converse in their native tongue, although they all spoke English beautifully. Though I knew they weren't talking about me I felt very uncomfortable and left out. The man I would like to marry is also of foreign birth and I know I would encounter the same situation, as it has already happened on several occasions.

Answer: The obvious solution is for you to learn the language of your husband. With such a splendid opportunity to learn another tongue, you'd be foolish to neglect the chance. While you would probably never be as fluent as your husband and his friends, you could at least learn to follow a conversation.

It's an understandable form of nostalgia that prompts people to use their native tongue when

'Lone Star' Gives Gable His 'Most Fighting' Role

Knives, guns and plain bare knuckles settle the arguments and dissensions in Clark Gable's "most fighting" role in "Lone Star." M.G.M.'s big new outdoor drama of Texas in the turbulent era of 1845 and the deadly conflict between those who favor annexation to the United States and the supporters of an independent republic. Gable is cast as a pro-annexation man, with Broderick Crawford as his bitter opponent and Ann Gardner as the girl they both love. Upper left, Gable uses his fists to subdue Gil Perkins in a fierce street brawl. Lower center, knives flash as Gable pins Crawford to the wall in a climax to their feud. At the right, the fighting adventurer sends a vaquero off to dreamland; while at the far left, even Miss Gardner gets into the fighting spirit, with Mr. Gable forced to wrest a gun from her hand. "Lone Star" opens a two-day run at the Saenger Sunday.

DOROTHY DIX

Crippled Youth

Dear Miss Dix: A very nice boy invited me to a Thanksgiving dance. Three days before the dance he was wounded in a hunting accident and as a result has one crippled hand. Now he avoids me and all other girls. Whenever one of his pals tries to talk him into double dating, he only laughs and says, "No girl would want to date a one-handed guy."

My problem is, how can I make him realize that I still like him a lot, and would go out with him regardless of his trouble?

Answer: You have quite a job on your hands to convince the boy that an accident does not make him a social outcast, but when you have accomplished your purpose—and you will—you will be richly rewarded. He will have the assurance that a girl who cares can disregard superficialities, and you will have a man whose character has been tried in the hardest school of all—facing life with a handicap and learning to make the best of it.

Says Russia Will Avoid Shooting War

Omaha, March 7 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) says he believes Russia will avoid a shooting war because they have enjoyed such success in the current battle of propaganda and subversion.

The senator said last night in the first of two University of Omaha Daxler Memorial lectures that while the United States is preparing for a full-scale war which may not come, "we are neglecting and losing the cold war which is already upon us."

"I maintain that... the Russians must have strong and abiding faith in the efficiency of conspiracy, sabotage and corruption and are unlikely to abandon them in favor of a dangerous and risky adventure involving atomic bombs," he declared.

He said that Russia knows of our lack of decision on foreign policy and will cause us to spend large sums of money and ruin our economy by inflation, rather than challenging us in full scale, hot war.

"Throughout the rearmament period," he said, "we must strive to keep government expenditures within government income."

Sen. Fulbright recommended an adjustment of the military demand

Sees Negro School Improvements

Pine Bluff, March 7 (AP)—Improving Negro schools in Arkansas might go a long way toward solving "troublesome" suits like those attacking segregation in two districts.

That's what Ed McCusick, director of the Negro division of the State Education Department, told about 75 school officials from six Arkansas counties yesterday.

McCusick said the time has come for school boards to do more about equalizing school facilities for Negro children. He suggested that salaries for Negro teachers also ought to be increased.

The suits to which McCusick referred are those against the Hughes and Fordyce districts, attacking racial segregation as a violation of the U. S. constitution.

Long Gets the Boot as Demo Committeeman

Baton Rouge, La., March 7 (AP)—Gov. Earl Long was kicked out as Louisiana's national Democratic committeeman yesterday and replaced with an outspoken critic of President Truman.

It was the second political setback in 10 days for the governor, whose brother, the late U. S. Sen. Huey P. Long, once ruled Louisiana with an iron hand.

Ousted with Long was Miss Mary Evelyn Dickerson, the national committeewoman. Elected to replace them were Attorney Frank Ellis of New Orleans and Mrs. A. E. Campbell of Homer, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Whether the National Democratic Committee, which is dominated by President Truman, will recognize the replacement is yet to be seen. Long said he was "not in touch with the national committee" and had no idea what it would do about his removal.

A spokesman for the national committee said in Washington the committee probably would have nothing to say about the matter until Louisiana's representatives present their credentials at the July nominating convention.

University May Hike Tuition

Little Rock, March 7 (AP)—Higher operating costs may force the University of Arkansas to increase its tuition.

Joe Covington, provost of the University, told its board of trustees here yesterday that an increase might be necessary, but that any boost would be slight. Basic so a more adequate amount of money and effort could be allocated to the cold war defense.

Crafton Approved by College Board

Conway, March 7 (AP) — The appointment of Jim Crafton as head of the coach at Arkansas State Teachers College here has been approved by the board of trustees.

Crafton, coach at Harrison high school and former University of Arkansas lineman, succeeds Howard Lee West Montgomery, who resigned.

Saratoga Eliminated by Hartford

Saratoga, the local favorite, was bumped from the State Class "B" basketball playoff at Prescott last night at the hands of Hartford—47 to 43.

The Hempstead team got off to a fine start leading 19 to 5 at the end of the opening quarter and the half saw them holding a 29 to 19 lead. Then the bottom fell out.

Hartford began clicking and Saratoga got cold. By the end of the third period the count was knotted 37-41 and Saratoga was unable to do much about it the rest of the way.

Other results:
Dyess 85, Salem 60.
Valley Springs 50, Cherry Valley, 30.
Waldo 46, New Edinburg 41.
Jesseville 53, Cord-Charlotte 50.
Dyess 58, Dumas 35.

net wishes of the working people.

I assured him that this was seldom so in American unions and that strikes often were called on the decision of one man affecting vast numbers of workers. I did not mention the fact that union crooks for many years have exploited our workers to threaten strikes as a method of extorting bribes from employers.

I did not pretend to be surprised to learn that this high authority who advises the pope on such matters did not know the sordid truth about unionism in this country.

I asked whether the conditions of Italian labor under the fascist unions had been good.

"They were good," my informant said, "but they were not democratic. Under the state they were autocratic."

He explained that the state appointed the executives of these "corporations", who therefore wrought the will of the state regardless of the desires of the workers.

Eut, I said, it was almost the same in our country. Our unions are political proteges, or wards, of the Democratic party and the high executives take by compulsion large sums of money from the workers to buy votes to keep the party in power. I mentioned the 7500,000 that John L. Lewis gave to Roosevelt's 1936 campaign without the slightest pretense of consulting the individual miners.

Such unions certainly would be autocratic, he conceded, but private autocracies rather than state autocracies. He admitted that the distinction was very hard to discern, however, where the bosses are active agents of the political party. He plainly was surprised even by these few glaring facts about that unionism which he had regarded as "the very model of democracy."

Our interview closed with a reiteration of his request that I write a survey for the information of the pope.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

Texarkana Is Edged by Fayetteville

Fayetteville, March 7 (AP) — The Arkansas class A basketball tournament today got down to the deadly serious business of quarter-final play, and some top touring favorites faced their toughest tests.

The probable top clash of today's quarterfinals pitted Fayetteville, rapidly assuming the role of the favorite, and North Little Rock of the tough Big Sox.

The games, starting this morning, were Pine Bluff vs. Newport; Tuckerman vs. Monticello, and Rogers vs. Clinton.

Fayetteville's polished Bulldogs last night eliminated the towering Texarkana quintet 36-35 in the most exciting tournament game to date.

Fayetteville trailed the Razorbacks most of the way, but won on a pair of last minute free throws by Russ McConnell.

Clint Ottwell, Texarkana's 6-foot-6 center, led individual scorers with 17 points, while McConnell had Fayetteville's 16.

Sports in Brief

YANKEES

St. Petersburg, March 7 (AP) — Catcher Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees insists he's in shape although he tips the scales at 196, about 10 above his playing weight.

Berra, named the Yanks' cleanup hitter yesterday, believes he will shed the excess weight during the season but Manager Casey Stengel is going to use Yogi in most of the exhibition games to bring down the weight.

REDS

Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — To get slugger Ted Williams and Junior Stephens up to the plate more often, Manager Lou Boudreau is moving them up higher in the Boston Red Sox' batting order.

"My idea," says Boudreau, "is to try to get both Ted and Stephens at bat five or six times in every game. In that fifth or sixth time one or both might hit a home run."

INDIANS

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Maybe Cleveland Manager Al Lopez was a little hasty in saying outfielder Harry Simpson was looking bad.

Just a day after he said that Simpson collected four hits in six trips to the plate — off the Indians' top relief pitchers, Lou Brissle and Steve Gromek. He got a double, two singles and a safe punt.

ATHLETICS

West Palm Beach, Fla. (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics Manager Jimmy Dykes was so pleased — at having all 33 players on the roster signed and in camp that he gave the boys a day off today.

It was the first day since battery-men reported Feb. 27 that no drills were scheduled. The "traveling squad" was to leave by bus about noon for the Washington Senators' camp at Orlando, where the A's play two weekend games.

Grapefruit Loop Opens Baseball Play

by The Associated Press

All 16 of the American and National League teams are scheduled to open their spring exhibition game schedule on a broad southern and western baseball front tomorrow.

The New York Yankees, world champions and American League pennant winners, will start off against the St. Louis Cardinals of the National loop at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Two clubs whom many think will be meeting in the World Series next October—the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants—open their grapefruit league grind at Tucson, Ariz. The Giants are defending National League champions.

Other games:
Cincinnati (N) vs. Boston (A) at Sarasota, Fla.
Detroit (A) vs. Philadelphia (N) at Clearwater, Fla.
Philadelphia (A) vs. Washington (A) at Orlando, Fla.
Boston (N) vs. Brooklyn (N) at Miami, Fla.
Chicago (N) vs. Chicago (A) at Pasadena, Calif.
Pittsburgh (N) vs. St. Louis (A) at Burbank, Calif.
Chicago (N) "B" Cleveland (A) "B" at Mesa, Ariz.

Hong Kong, March 6 (AP)—Gov. Sir Alexander Grantham today praised Hong Kong's Social Welfare Department for a "unique contribution to this bureaucratic ridden world." "He made the Stars also..."

God made two great lights; the greater to rule over the day, and the lesser to rule over the night. He made the stars also. Perhaps you are discouraged. Maybe you think that you do not count...that you are not even needed in the church. Maybe you are blindfolded to the opportunities that are all about you. Remember, He made the stars also. He made you.

Though it may seem dark all about you and you may think your life is all in vain, God never creates worthless things nor useless lives. Sure, He needs great lights...great leaders, but "He made the stars also." He made you and me. As much as God needs great men He also needs small, humble ones to take stations as reflectors. He made the stars to reflect the light of the sun.

God uses the church to woo men to the better life. The church must have leaders, and the church also has many ordinary, humble people who trust God and walk by faith...blindfolded or not. God made the great Light, but to reflect the great Light to all His world, "He Made the Stars Also." He needs you.
